

Course Information
Course Code	EN389	*	Credit Hours	32	* Credits	2
* Course Name	1
	Research Methods in Linguistics (1)
(Course Type)
Target Audience
(Language of Instruction)
* School	School of Foreign Languages
Prerequisite
Instructor			(Course Webpage)
* Description
* Description	This course has two principal aims: first, to help students become more capable, critical readers of research in linguistics; second, to provide students with a strong hands-on experience in employing the rationales and methods used in qualitative and quantitative research. The course follows the structure of a research project, and the practical steps involved in carrying out in different types of studies will be presented and discussed. Topics may include research in the areas of phonetics, syntax, semantics, pragmatics, language acquisition, psycholinguistics, sociolinguistics and language teaching, etc.
Course Syllabus
* (Learning Outcomes)	When the course is completed the student should: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1) understand the basic notions in the philosophy and theory of science for linguistic research methods. 2) understand the major types of qualitative and quantitative research methods. 3) understand and apply scientific research ethics. 4) critically evaluate research reports and research completed by others. 5) effectively design a research proposal.

More
Notes

1 *

2 300-500